Fund Evolution vs Benchmark (since inception)

Market Commentary

In February the Fund delivered negative performance, underperforming its benchmark by 1% with a loss of -9.1% compared to a loss of -8.1% for the benchmark. However, the Fund outperformed Indian mid-cap and small-cap stocks, which posted returns of -11.4% and -14.6%, respectively. Overall, the Indian equity market faced challenges in February 2025 due to foreign selling, economic uncertainty, and corporate earnings pressures. However, domestic investors remained optimistic about the long-term growth prospects of the Indian economy.

The Indian equity market continued its decline for the fifth consecutive month as foreign investors continued to sell Indian equities, with cumulative net sales of USD 13B in the first two months of 2025. Earnings growth for the large caps was positive but missed street expectations. Key sectors like Financials and IT drove the earnings growth, while others like infrastructure and materials lagged behind.

On the economic indicators side, wholesale inflation increased to 2.4%, an 8-month high, driven by non-food items while retail inflation eased to a seven-month low of 3.6%, primarily due to lower food prices. The GDP growth rate for the October-December quarter was 6.2%, supported by increased government and consumer spending. The Manufacturing PMI was 56.3, indicating expansion, while the Services PMI was 59, reflecting robust growth in the services sector. Moreover, the RBI cut interest rates to further boost the economy.
